

Buttsbury House - Barbados

This beautiful home is situated on the corner of the Polo Field, in just over an acre of spacious mature gardens, with exceptional views of the Caribbean sea beyond. The villa was built under the guidance of the famous architect, Ian Morrison, and the property has been immaculately maintained. The accommodation is situated around the central, heated swimming pool and sunbathing area, with 4 air-conditioned bedrooms on the lower floor and the master bedroom on the upper floor.

On the side of the house facing the sea, there is a large comfortable sitting room with picture windows to frame the splendid view, allowing the wonderful cool constant breeze to pass through. The villa boasts a cozy television/video room, and an air-conditioned private study, which can also double as a bedroom, and a large verandah, with an electric awning to provide a shade from the sun.

The master bedroom, which overlooks the pool from the upper floor on the north side, is air-conditioned, with private dressing room, a luxurious marble bathroom with separate shower, and a secluded balcony surrounded by tropical flowers. The bedrooms on the pool level, are double bedrooms, all with marble bathrooms and lots of cupboard space. One bedroom also includes a single bedded nursery or nanny's room.
