

Fustic House - Barbados

Fustic House is one of the most distinctive property transformations created on Barbados by the designer, Oliver Messel. This exclusive private estate is nestled within 10 acres of lush tropical gardens, on a coral ridge above the quaint fishing village of Half Moon Fort, with stunning views of the Caribbean Sea and the coast.

It is clear to see why many have considered Fustic to be one of the most beautiful and peaceful properties in the Caribbean, as well as being the largest private estate on Barbados.

Fustic House is actually made up of three distinctive, separate wings - the Great House, the Messel Wing and the Plantation Wing. Together, they provide six luxurious double suites with en-suite bathrooms and numerous comfortable lounging areas. These different wings are connected with paths that wind through the lush vegetation providing guests with the privacy of the property.

Each bedroom is equipped with air conditioning and Bose stereo system and the house has wireless ADSL internet access and satellite television.

The unique, enchanting Swimming Pool, has been carved out of the coral ridge in the form of a private lagoon, and has been featured in the many prestigious publications such as Vogue and Tatler.

Fustic boasts the services of the excellent chef, Mr Kenroy Hunte, who is very creative and you will not be able to resist his menu selections.

Other Amenities and recent developments at Fustic House include:
